We have heard complaints from parties desiring to buy real estate in the vicinity of town that water rates were so high that they could not afford to attempt to farm. It may be that the water companies have no more water than they need for their own use, but if there is water to spare it seems to us poor policy that it should be put at such rates as to practically exclude settlers who desire to come among us. We have not inquired into the matter as yet but only call attention to it as it appeared in casual conversation with a stranger desiring to buy land in the vicinity.

The Democratic County Convention met in the Court House today at about 11 o'clock, and after organizing by electing J. H. Burger, Chairman, and Mr. Todd, Secretary, a committee on credentials was appointed and the meeting adjourned to one o'clock. Promptly at one o'clock the meeting was called to order when objections were raised to hearing the report of the Committee on Credentials, but finally it was forced on the Convention when it was discovered that it had counted out some of the precincts, a general storm arose and the Convention resolved itself into a committee of the whole on credentials and immediately adjourned, considerably exhausted by its ardent labors. It was difficult to see what the committee on credentials should do for unless it be the usual Democratic cause. As we go to press we learn that the Convention has adjourned a second time to meet in Mayer's building.

(Signed) R. B. TODD, J. L. B. ALEXANDER, CHAS. GOLDMAN, JOHN H. BURGER, I. B. HAND.

On motion the report was adopted. The following report of committee on platform was submitted and adopted:

The Democrats of Maricopa county in convention assembled, hereby renew their support of the cardinal doctrine of that party as enumerated in its National platform of 1880. We are unanimously convinced that the tenets of this party, which inspired the mind of Jefferson and animated the indomitable will of Jackson, are time enduring, and constitute the only political principles upon which can be safely based a free government.

The self-confessed corruption of the Republican party; its tendency to Senatorial oligarchy; its stalwartism; its shameless levying of forced contributions on office-holders for campaign purposes; and the yielding of money, time and place to pack primary elections and dictate nominations; its manifest alliance with all monopolies; its slight regard for the constitution, are all alike subservient of an insidious political thought and action; a free government and the best interest of the masses.

We congratulate the people of Maricopa county upon the steady growth and prosperity of the county under the local Democratic administration; the reduction of the county debt; the economic disposition of the county funds; the remarkable increase of schools and school facilities; and the effective efforts of the officers in the suppression of crime. We therefore declare as follows:

First.—That our true interest lies in a good local county government, and the county affairs should be economically managed, with a view to the interest of every section alike.

Second.—All corporations should be forced to pay a just tax on their corporate property.

Third.—That the public schools in the county shall be fostered and nourished.

Fourth.—The wagon roads in every portion of the county should be kept in good condition for travel, and we advise the passage of a law which will set aside a greater portion of the county funds for that purpose than the present law.

Fifth.—That we take no part in the controversies between the different sections of the Territory, but we do demand of the Legislature a recognition of the rights to which Arizona's only agricultural section is justly entitled.

Sixth.—The Legislature should again petition the General Government to restore the public lands in this Territory to the actual settlers, granted by the Republican party, to the Texas Pacific Railroad Company.

Finally.—We send greeting to the Democrats in the Territory, with the assurance that there shall be no faltering in our ranks, and that on the day of November Maricopa county will be what it has proudly been in the past, the vanguard of Democracy in Arizona Territory.

W. L. OSBORNE, H. W. BRAZEE, N. M. BROADWAY.

On motion Legislative officers were put at the end of the list, and ballot began and officers were put in nomination as follows:

For Sheriff, L. H. Orme; Recorder, Nori Osborne; Probate Judge, T. Greenhaw; Treasurer, Geo. F. Kemper; Territorial Council, A. D. Lemon; Representatives, P. Holcomb and S. F. Webb; Supervisors, Holbert and Henshaw; District Attorney, A. C. Baker; Surveyor, W. Miller; Coroner and Public Administrator, W. R. Carey.

The following members of the County Central Committee were then elected for the various precincts:

Phoenix—I. Hand, J. Osborne, N. M. Broadway, G. N. Collins, J. Lawson.

Tempe—Crosner and Holbert. Mesa—Pomeroy.

McDowell—J. A. McCann. Verde—L. L. Loutreite.

New River—Campbell. Wickenburg—A. H. Peoples.

Agua Caliente—H. F. Neahr. Vulture—R. B. Todd, Wm. Brodie, Seymour—H. H. Scott.

Gila Bend—Frank Welcome. Cave Creek—M. Clanton.

The Convention then adjourned sine die and the Phoenix delegates organized for the purpose of nominating Town Trustees, Constable etc. They adjourned to meet last Saturday in this month to complete the nominations.

INDEPENDENCIA DE MEXICO. Notwithstanding the very unfavorable weather the Mexican and Saturday last the Mexican population faithfully carried out their programme of the celebration of Mexican Independence at Tempe, as per announcement made last week through the HERALD, and by printed programmes from this office.

On Friday evening literary exercises were held at the hall in Tempe. At twelve o'clock P. M. a salute of 21 guns was fired and the band struck up a national air and general rejoicing continued till early Saturday morning. At about 11:30 A. M. on Saturday a procession was formed, consisting of a triumphal car, the band, military and citizens, making altogether a beautiful and very orderly display. In the triumphal car were seated five young persons representing America, Goddess of Liberty, Justice, Hidalgo, the first who instigated the Mexican revolution which resulted in Mexican freedom, and Iturbide, the Mexican General under whom the Mexican forces were able to achieve their freedom.

At 1 o'clock P. M. literary exercises were renewed at the pavilion on the plaza and in the evening a theatrical entertainment and ball served to end the occasion. Dancing continued till after daylight Sunday morning. Altogether our Mexican population are to be congratulated on the success of the affair, considering the disagreeable footing and general gloominess.

Affection is a latent impulse, fanned into glowing love and trust by the smiles of encouragement, and the gentle, soothing and tender words and looks that spring from a soul laden with the perennial count of God's inspiration. Ask of the birds that flap their wings in joy and gladness as they mount heavenward on the bosom of their wings, whence come the thrilling rays that vibrate from their tiny throats, and could they speak, they would tell you that love for Him who made them overflows and gushes forth in song. Ask of the dog (the lowest consideration in the scale of brute creation, in the estimation of those whose souls are dyed with the stains of hypocrisy) whose comes the affection his laughing face and wagging tail so perfectly evince for his kind-hearted master, and he would declare, if speech were his, that the spark of love was first lighted in his eyes, and gratitude first implanted in his nature through the fostering care and nourishing food of the man in whom God has placed the motives of philanthropy and truth. Kindness is the mother of affection, whose caressing hand falls as gently and soothingly upon the aching head and blighted heart, as do the dewdrops of heaven upon the drooping flowers that faint by the wayside under the scorching beams of the sun. A pearl of surpassing beauty that sparkles in eternity, and whose beams radiate the horizon of hope and peace beyond the river, is affection, the sunlight of the soul—the star of promise—the jewel of great price.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

Adopted at Phoenix, Aug. 22d, 1892.

Resolved, That the Republican party of Arizona declares its unqualified allegiance to the National Republican party and endorses the Chicago platform of 1880. We claim a common heritage in the grand history of the party which saved the American Union from dismemberment, rehabilitated a disorganized country, and has since so managed the finances of the nation that today the credit of the United States is unparalleled.

Resolved, We charge that the course of the Democratic party has demonstrated that in its desire to control public business and money it will sacrifice the best interests of the people, disregard its pledges, and, as is fully illustrated in its platform, will not put to the test of popular approval, by plain and straightforward statements its views upon issues directly affecting the welfare of the Territory. We arraign our present delegate in Congress for his inactivity, incompetency and his entire failure to obtain the passage of any measures for our benefit.

Resolved, That we hold to the great principle of equal and exact justice to all, and that railroads and other corporations are subject to the same laws as the people through the legislature and are amenable to law.

This convention favors any and all measures that will tend to bring labor and capital, organized or unorganized, into Arizona. Equality before the law is the fundamental principle of the Republican party to such a course of legislation as will extend to corporations and corporate capital in Arizona the same protection and the same laws accorded to individuals, no more and no less, requiring corporations as well as individuals to perform their just share of the labor, and to pay their just share of the taxation we pay to carry on the government, making the same rules apply to corporations as to individuals.

Resolved, That the Republican party in conformity with its record and traditions declares in favor of fostering and maintaining free public schools in every town and precinct in the Territory.

Resolved, That in our opinion there is too much money appropriated annually for the support of hostile Indians to permit of a speedy and just settlement of the vexed question, and we believe that a tribe of hostile savages should not be kept in our midst, fed and supported out of the public treasury, and we earnestly recommend that the safety and protection of the frontier settlers be made the first object in all legislation affecting the Indians. We are in favor of the disarmament of all Indians of hostile tribes in this Territory as indispensable to the safety of our people.

Resolved, We welcome all foreigners—Chinese only excepted—who in good faith come and settle amongst us, and guarantee to them the same equal rights which are now enjoyed by native-born Americans, and we further declare that we are unalterably opposed to Chinese immigration or immigration.

Resolved, That just compensation should be paid to all public servants for their services, and that they be held to a strict accountability; that the present fee system, while perhaps not being sufficient in some minor offices to induce competent persons to accept such positions, in other cases secures to county officers an extravagant and unreasonable amount for such services. The fees for such officers in such cases should be reduced, or the amount so received in excess of reasonable compensation for such services should be paid into the treasuries of the several counties where such conditions obtain.

Resolved, We favor a reorganization of our courts by Congress to the end that litigation may be lessened and made cheaper, that the law delays may not amount to a denial of justice and that no judge shall sit in an appellate court in judgment upon a cause decided by him in a lower court.

Resolved, That we recognize the fact that gold, silver and copper mining is the chief source of wealth in the Territory, and we therefore demand the fullest protection for this our greatest industry, and that all legislation, Territorial and Federal, upon this subject be so directed as to discourage mining litigation, render mining titles more secure and foster and encourage the development of our mineral resources to the fullest extent.

Resolved, We declare ourselves in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver upon the same terms and under the same regulations as is gold, and pledge ourselves that, if elected, our candidate for Delegate will exert himself to the end that both gold and silver will be fully and equally recognized, according to their respective values, as the money of the country.

Florence Finishes.

The agent for the Indiana mining company whose property is at Mineral Hill, was down at the river on Saturday, a few miles above Florence, examining the fall of the river and lay of the land along the banks for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not a water power could be secured. He says that if he can secure a water power (there by an expenditure of twenty thousand dollars, he would not put up steam power as he could save that amount in wood in a short time. If the drift across the ledge at the bottom of the shaft on the Specie Paying should open a good body of ore he will make arrangements to commence the erection of reduction works on the river at once.

Over one thousand dollars have been subscribed already toward the building of the new church and the committee will experience no difficulty in raising the remainder of the amount required. This makes the establishment of the academy a certainty. Our citizens are of that class who do not hesitate to go down into their pockets when such a course will secure a public benefit, and that is the kind of enterprise that builds cities.

Masonic Matters. Three colors have always held pre-eminence, viz: blue, scarlet and purple. These colors have been most extensively used to decorate the altars of religion and the palaces of kings, and they have been made conspicuous in the garments of priests and the robes of royalty. They were the appointed colors of the curtains and veil of the tabernacle, and were represented either separately or in some form of combination upon nearly all articles of sacred paraphernalia connected with ancient worship. Blue was undoubtedly the favorite and predominant color—a light blue indicating the air—hot purple, also held in high estimation, was much used. Purple was not only one of the leading colors in the tabernacle, but it was the expressive color which characterized the epoch of the high priest, his girdle and breastplate. It was likewise the required color for certain cloths made to cover articles of sacred furniture, especially the Ark of the Covenant. As blue represented the air, so purple was understood to signify the sea, and there was an association of such references because of the fact that the ancient purple dyes were manufactured from the juices of shell-fish. It is maintained by some writers, however, that the purple used by the Israelites at the time of the exodus was a vegetable dye, the preparation of which was ranks as one of the lost arts. The far-famed Tyrian purple, it is said, was not discovered until the time of the exodus. Other authorities hold that the art of obtaining this color from many kinds of shell-fish was known at the time when Moses led his people in Crete, B. C. 1460, and that the manner of its preparation was undoubtedly familiar to the people of Israel when they sojourned in the wilderness. Be this as it may, there can be no doubt of the fact that the Israelites had purple dyes in profusion at that early date, and were acquainted with much of the cleanliness and variety of coloring which afterward drew such extensive trade to the coasts of Tyre. The discovery of the Tyrian purple is often attributed to the Tyrian Hercules, whose dog, in eating a piece of shell-fish, stained his mouth with a rich purple color; this attracted the notice of his master, who experimented with the juice of shell on certain fabrics, which he brought before the notice of the king, who was so delighted with the rich and beautiful blue thus produced as to declare that the color should be the special emblem of royalty. The Romans, as also many other nations dwelling along the coasts of the Mediterranean, recognized the purple as an imperial color, and used it profusely in decorating their temples and palaces. Most of these nations understood the art of manufacturing a variety of dyes from the abundant material gathered from the coast sea. It was the skilled workmen of Tyre, however, who produced the purple colors most valued. They understood how to combine dyes and produce a peculiar lustre, by means of which their purple fabrics were at one time worth almost their weight in gold. Purple is a color that is still greatly used and admired. It is now as in the ancient time a royal and sacred color being worn by the clergy, and by kings and queens, and for the vestments of ecclesiastics holding high positions. In Masonry the purple color is recognized. It distinguishes one of the principal robes in the chapter, and it is also brought before the vision of Royal Arch Masons in a variety of suggestive presentations. It has its appropriate use in the connection with the proper illustration of several portions of the Masonic system, and while it adds to the richness of decoration it also carries with it a force of moral significance. The purple is a color that has many points involved in a consideration of the symbolism of colors. There can be no doubt, however, that purple was understood by the ancients to represent authority and wisdom, and that in its highest form of suggestiveness it points not alone to glory and power of temporal rulers, but to the might and majesty of him who is revealed as the "King of Kings" and the "Lord of Lords." We do well to consider that almost everything of material form and representation—everything of decoration and embellishment—may very likely have a spiritual use and suggestiveness most worth of our careful search. Certainly all colors are thus significant.—Repository.
